Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 18 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Showers easing before further rain on Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cloudy with blustery showers during the evening. Showers easing overnight leaving dry conditions with some clear spells. Clouds developing during the early hours with some rain arriving by dawn. Windy. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:
Outbreaks of rain, heavy at times, will persist throughout the day. Further south of the region will see most of the dry spells. Windy with coastal gales and feeling mild. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Staying wet and windy on Saturday through until Sunday morning before turning drier with calmer winds on Sunday afternoon. Largely clear with isolated showers on Monday. Mild throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.